Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

April 30, 2001 LB 305, 543

man to be so assertive; that I ought to sit back and be quiet and a nice colored fellow like those kind you watched in those discriminatory, insulting, stereotypical, minstrel movies. Well, I'm not that, and I'm here to tell you that I'm not that. And while I'm on that subject, I always have to remind people, because they start getting a little hot under the collar, don't mistake...don't make the mistake of assessing my manhood according to that standard set by Martin Luther King, where I let people punch on me and I don't do anything to defend myself, or I let people spit on me and I tell them God bless you; they hit me on one cheek and I let them hit the other one. No days like that for me. I'm here to do the fighting that needs to be done on the floor of this Legislature to try to see that justice prevails, and justice right now is not prevailing. There's an article, well, it's actually an editorial, on page 12 of this handout, where the World-Herald headlined an editorial: "Equal Opportunity Key to School Plan". There was no equal opportunity. And, in that editorial, the World-Herald made it clear, hey, if you want to get rid of bussing you better go for this bond issue; if you want to resegregate those schools you better go for this bond issue. And that was how they got them to vote...

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...for a $254 million bond issue to resegregate the schools. And now they're down here crying and saying they don't have money, and they cannot submit to the public a vote on whether they can override that levy limit or the spending limit, because they tricked them once, they can't do it again. And I'm going to tell you-all about a very bad decision the Omaha Public Schools made as far as spending not as much as they were allowed in order to stockpile money to underwrite the resegregation plan. Those are the kind of things they did that you-all don't know about, that you don't care about. But I'm going to put it in the record, and those who are listening will have a better understanding of why I'm opposed to some of those things in LB 305, and their kindred, if any others like them come along.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator, you're recognized to close.
